

Developmental Disability State Services

Developmental Disability Services support the unique needs of individuals, family members, and caregivers who experience a developmental disability. This support focuses on empowering individuals with disabilities to have quality opportunities and choices to be fully included in the community.

Does each State offer Developmental Disability Services?

Yes! Each state offers a variety of services to people with intellectual and developmental disabilities who qualify. States may provide different types of services for people with disabilities. Check with your state to see how they can help.

Who may qualify for Developmental Disability Services?

- A child or adult who is diagnosed with a developmental disability before age 22
- A child or adult with a developmental disability that significantly impacts their daily life
- A child or adult who has ongoing support needs

How do I contact my state's Intellectual/Developmental Disability agency?

For more information about a particular state's intellectual/Developmental Disabilities agency (I/DD), visit this website: https: www.nasddds.org/state-agencies/

CLICK HERE!

Click or scan the QR code to find your state's I/DD agency

SCAN ME

Services vary by state. Types of potential supports may include:

- Adaptive Equipment
- Day Services
- Behavioral Support
- Case Management
- Respite
- Daily Living Skills
- Therapy Services